DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 101

1. 35 U.S.C. 101 reads as follows:

Whoever invents or discovers any new and useful process, machine, manufacture, or composition of matter, or any new and useful improvement thereof, may obtain a patent therefor, subject to the conditions and requirements of this title.

2. Claims 16-53 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 101 because the claimed invention is directed to non-statutory subject matter.

Claims to computer-related inventions that are clearly nonstatutory fall into the same general categories as nonstatutory claims in other arts, namely natural phenomena such as magnetism, and abstract ideas or laws of nature which constitute "descriptive material." Abstract ideas, Warmerdam, 33 F.3d at 1360, 31 USPQ2d at 1759, or the mere manipulation of abstract ideas, Schrader, 22 F.3d at 292-93, 30 USPQ2d at 1457-58, are not patentable. Descriptive material can be characterized as either "functional descriptive material" or "nonfunctional descriptive material." In this context, "functional descriptive material" consists of data structures and computer programs which impart functionality when employed as a computer component. (The definition of "data structure" is "a physical or logical relationship among data elements, designed to support specific data manipulation functions." The New IEEE Standard Dictionary of Electrical and Electronics Terms 308 (5th ed. 1993).) "Nonfunctional descriptive material" includes but is not limited to music, literary works and a compilation or mere arrangement of data (See MPEP section 2106, IV, B, 1).

3. Claim 16 comprises steps of tracking and predicting. The steps are just an abstract idea. The claims do not provide practical application that produces a useful, tangible and concrete result. Therefore, the claim is non-statutory. Similar problems exist in the other claims 28, and 38.

4. Claims 48-53 recite a computer program product. As shown by the specification (paragraph [1063]), This product may be a form of propagated signal. A computer data signal embodied in a transmission medium does not fall under any of the statutory classes. First, a claimed signal is clearly not a "process" under Sec. 101 because it is not a series of steps. The other three Sec. 101 classes of machine, compositions of matter and manufactures "relate to structural entities and can be grouped as 'product' claims in order to contrast them with process claims." 1 D. Chisum, Patents Sec. 1.02 (1994). The three product classes have traditionally required physical structure or material.

Allowable Subject Matter

5. Claims 1-15 and 58-66 are allowed.

Claims 16-57 would be allowable if rewritten or amended to overcome the rejection(s) under 35 U.S.C. 101 set forth in this Office action.

Response to Arguments

6. Applicant's arguments, with respect to the rejection under 35 USC § 102 have been fully considered and are persuasive. The rejection under 35 USC § 102 of claims 1-3, 10-47, 54-57, and 62-64 has been withdrawn.

7. Applicant's arguments with regards to the rejection under 35 USC § 101 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive. As stated in the previous Office Action, tracking and predicting are just abstract ideas which require no physical actions to be done. Something must occur based on the prediction for the claims to be statutory. Additionally, issues exist with claims 48-53 shown above in the 101 rejection.
